Ziemia Obiecana Wladyslaw Reymont

During Łódź's first decades of growth (1820–1864), textile mills built by German manufacturers such as Ludwig Geyer and Karl Scheibler attracted masses of Polish peasants to work in what the Polish novelist Władysław Reymont called Ziemia obiecana (The Promised Land; 1899). Jews established retail and other businesses, eventually breaking into textile manufacturing as well, although ...
