The oldest known sundial is from Egypt; it dates back to around 1500 BC (19th Dynasty), and was discovered in the Valley of the Kings in 2013. Sundials have their origin in shadow clocks, which were the first devices used for measuring the parts of a day. Ancient Egyptian obelisks, constructed about 3500 BC, are also among the earliest shadow clocks.

Large organizations may use the services of an outside company or online tool to perform salary benchmarking. With some of these tools, a hiring manager can locate aggregate market data for a specific geographic location, title or job specialty. When conducting research, a firm might also obtain market pay rates that take into account differences in education and experience level.
