I'm a gay guy. I've got a beard, a build, and I dress like most humans do. I don't lisp when I talk, and I don't spend my time gossiping about other people in a weird Jersey Girl accent (which would sound annoying enough on a woman).

People aren't homophobic. You're just weird ...

NOTE: The following stories seem to describe two kinds of "electric human" phenomena. One involves conventional static electricity, and the other is something more mysterious. If you DON'T get constant shocks when touching either people or metal objects, yet electronic devices often fail in your presence, then your problem is not strictly electrical.

I've wondered similarly about pro-lifers – if they really believe that abortion is murder, why do so many of them choose to protest peacefully and non-violently? One way to deal with this may be to adopt the deontological stance of considering certain actions intrinsically evil (as in Catholicism), but in that case you can't justify the death penalty or even basic stuff like self-defense.
