My conclusion is that there is no reputable evidence that any of the specific physical, chemical or health claims made by manufacturers of water ionizers or their proponents have been validated by well conducted, controlled and blinded experimental studies. The few human studies on specific cures mentioned in the references were apparently not published.

Sunlight and water are the most abundant, clean, renewable and natural energy resources on Earth. Their conversion to hydrogen has been described as an ideal solution to counter the depletion of and environmental issues associated with fossil fuels .Hydrogen production via water splitting with TiO_2 as the photo-catalyst was first reported in 1972 , .
