Gilbert Ryle was best known for his criticism of what he called the "Official Doctrine" of "Cartesian Dualism" as a theory of mind. He thought René Descartes had naturalized the theological idea of a soul as a separate non-material substance called "mind." The mind-body problem asks how a non-material mental substance can causally influence the material body.

As a somewhat insulting noun, "Captain obvious" can be used for someone who is always stating the obvious. Prolixity can be used to describe someone who says too much. This may be applicable in some cases. In addition, Logorrhoea is a term with a similar meaning to proluxity although again the primary meaning is simply too much vs. stating the obvious.
