Constitutional references to God exist in the constitutions of a number of nations, most often in the preamble. A reference to God in a legal text is called invocatio dei ("invocation of God") if the text itself is proclaimed in the name of the deity. A reference to God in another context is called nominatio dei ("naming of God"). Such invocationes and nominationes dei are found notably in ...

On April 3, 2009, the Worldwide Church of God officially changed its name to Grace Communion International. Throughout most of its history, the Worldwide Church of God - founded and led by Herbert W. Armstrong - was, theologically, a cult of Christianity. However, starting in the mid 1980's under Joseph Tkach Sr, and later his son, Joseph Tkach Jr. - the church's current leader - the ...

[10] Most histories of the Church of God have considered the Holiness Church at Camp Creek to be a continuation of the 1886 Christian Union. Tomlinson called it "a continuation of the same organization that was started sixteen years before, yet it was not given the same name, as it was in a different locality."
